

E-Press Release - February 2010

■ TORRES, GREEN COMPANY OF THE YEAR

Bodegas Torres awarded as Green Company of the Year in London

The prestigious magazine Drinks Business (Europe's leading drinks trade publication with approximately 30,000 readers per month), awarded Torres the distinction of "Green" Company of the Year during the gala for the 2010 Green Awards, held in London on the 11th of February.

The jury rewarded the winery for having demonstrated its commitment to the environment: improving its systems and procedures to reduce its carbon footprint, minimising the impact on its surroundings and promoting ecological awareness, both among its workers and also among its clients and consumers.

Torres also received a special mention for the Sustainability Award thanks to the efforts it has made to increase and improve its eco-sustainable practices (recycling, ecological agricultural techniques, energy savings, etc.), especially over the last few years.

The creation of the Green Awards (this is their first year) is the result of society's growing concern with ecological issues and its appreciation of companies committed to the environment.

Bodegas Torres has therefore reaped the benefits of its firm commitment to ecology, embodied in a list of detailed undertakings on its new website created especially for this purpose: www.torresgreen.com

Do not hesitate to contact your Area Manager if you should require more information about this E-Press Release

